The second annual wider context survey for the Researchers of Tomorrow project was completed in autumn 2010. The findings have been incorporated in the second Annual Report published on this site in June 2011.

The third and final wider context survey will be launched in the summer of 2011. The survey aims to capture trends in research seeking and information behaviour across Generation Y students and older doctoral students, who will provide a benchmark against which to compare Gen Y.

Doctoral students of all ages, all subject disciplines and all HEIs are encouraged to complete the survey, with a chance of winning a cash prize voucher!

A link to the 2011 survey will be provided here.
